

Undefeated welterweight Steve Weimer takes on Jose Valderrama Friday night in his hometown of York, PA.

York, Penn. (July 14, 2016) – Undefeated welterweight prospect Steve Weimer will be back in action this Friday night when he squares off with Jose Valderrama in a four-round bout at The Wolf Gym in Weimer's hometown of York, Pennsylvania.

The 26 year-old will be making his third appearance of 2016. He has been kept active since signing with Jeter Promotions.

"Training has been good. I am just in the process of making weight," said Weimer on Wednesday night.

In Valderrama, Weimer is facing a veteran, who has faced 11 undefeated opponents.

"I know Valderrama is from Puerto Rico and my style should be good for this fight. He likes to come forward and I will look to pick my shots."

Despite Valderrama's record of 5-14, Weimer is taking this fight seriously.

"I train two or three times a day for as much as eight hours. I stay in good shape all the time. I know I am three inches taller than him. I plan to feel him out in round one and then get him out of there. I am ready to get this win and move on to the next fight,"

Since moving to his new promoter, Weimer has been kept active and feels that big things are in the near future.

"With Jeter Promotions, I feel that I will get a couple more fighters this year and look for something big early next year.””

Weimer makes it a perfect 10 with win over Figueroa

York, Penn. (April 22, 2016) – Back on April 9, Steve Weimer came back from a 39-month layoff with a four round unanimous decision over 73-fight veteran, Joseph Figueroa in Springfield, Virginia.

With the win, Weimer raised his perfect mark to 10-0 and the middleweight prospect from York, Pennsylvania is primed and ready to keep the momentum going.

“He was a tough guy, but I boxed him,” Weimer said of Figueroa. “I used my length and range to set up the right hand to score a knockdown in the first round. After the layoff, it was good to shake the rust off.”

“I kept my composure and fought my fight. I did exactly what I wanted to do. It was the perfect comeback fight.

There won't be anymore long layoffs for Weimer as he is already preparing for his next outing, which is scheduled to take place on June 4th in Springfield.

“I am already back in the gym for June 4th. There are a few guys they are talking to and I am just preparing for whoever takes the fight.”

The fight was also a new beginning for Weimer as it was his first bout under the promotional banner of Jeter Promotions.

“Being my first fight under Jeter Promotions, it went really well. Tony Jeter is a smart guy and a good promoter. He focuses on me and I know he will get me the fights that I need to get me to where I need to be,” said the 26 year-old Weimer.

Said Jeter Promotions CEO, Tony Jeter, “Steve wants to fight anybody. He has the confidence to go along with his talent. I know if we bring him along the right way, he can do big things. The sky is the limit for him. He has all the intangibles that a promoter looks for that go along with his ability. He is every marketable and he can fight and I am just so excited to what the future has in store for Steve.”

Tony Jeter explains Dusty Harrison situation

Columbia, Maryland (March 29, 2016) – Former world title challenger, Tony Jeter is upset about recent events surrounding a proposed fight with undefeated junior middleweight Dusty Harrison.

The fight was to take place on May 13 in Washington, DC which is where Harrison is billed from and not far from Jeter’s Columbia, Maryland residence.

It’s safe to say, the fight would have been a big local attraction.

“I received a contract and signed it immediately. That was on March 10th,” Said Jeter.

“As everyone knows, I am a promoter and had already announced, and then had to cancel my show that was to be on May 14 in Hanover, Pennsylvania. Then ten days later, I get the call that they were going in a different direction and the fight was off.”

Jeter does not lay blame on Harrison himself, but people in his inner-circle that may have put the kibosh on the fight.

“I believe it is the people around him who did not want this fight. His promotional team signed off on the fight, but it is those people who get in his ear on a daily basis are scared that Dusty could lose to me and their gravy train will end I guess,” continued Jeter.

Jeter knows the fight would be a tough fight, but it is a winnable fight and just as important, would be a terrific night for D.C. area boxing fans.

“This fight would be a great event for the D.C/Maryland area. It is a shame because they want to fight smaller guys. Blown up lightweight’s and junior welterweights. He has been fighting in the 150’s. I am 40 years-old and he is a 21 year-old undefeated kid who is talented. He has all the advantages. From what I was told, a member of his team hired an attorney and contacted his promotional company to stop this fight. I do not know what they are scared of. When will they cut the umbilical chord and let this kid fight someone.”

Jeter Promotions gets Pennsylvania Promoters License

York, PA (February 29, 2016) – Jeter Promotions is pleased to announce that the company has been licensed in the state of Pennsylvania to begin promoting boxing events.

Pennsylvania joined Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia as states that the company has acquired licenses.

“I am excited to be branching my company into Pennsylvania,” said Tony Jeter of Jeter Promotions.

“I want to thank Greg Sirb for the opportunity to be able to do events in that great state. We already have a date of May 14 in York at the Hanover National Guard Armory where will we feature York’s own Steve Weimer.”

More details on the May 14 event will be forthcoming.

The Hanover National Guard Aromory is located at 51 West Clearview Street,

Jeter Promotions signs undefeated Welterweight Steve Weimer

York, PA (February 17, 2016) – Jeter Promotions is pleased to announce the signing of undefeated Welterweight prospect Steve Weimer to an exclusive promotional contract.

Weimer of York, PA. has a record of 9-0 with two knockouts and is looking to get back in the ring following a four-year hiatus.

Weimer did not leave the ring because of the usual boxing stereotypes, but he took some time off to get his college degree. Weimer graduated from York College with a degree in Criminal Justice and Psychology.

Weimer, now 26 years-old had an amateur record of 105-31 was a three-time Pennsylvania Junior Golden Gloves champion and also won a Pennsylvania open class Golden Gloves title. He holds an amateur win over 140-pound contender Emanuel Taylor and held his own in a fight with future U.S. Olympian Sadam Ali.

He turned professional in 2008 with a third round stoppage over Spencer Harsley and signed with upstart promoter TKO Promotions. Weimer racked up those nine wins in a three and a half year run, before heading off to college.

"I know Jeter Promotions can get me to the top,"said Weimer. I saw what Jeter Promotions did for Tony Jeter for his career and I know what Jeter Promotions can do for mine. Combine all that with my ability and I know I will fight consistently. With Jeter Promotions, I know I can get to the top and be in big fights.

"Jeter Promotions is excited to add Steve to our roster. Jeter Promotions will do for him as It did for my career. Jeter Promotions will build him to get him rated and I can see him being in a lot of big fights in the future and eventually win a world title, " Said Jeter.

Tony Jeter is a Middleweight contender who twice cracked the world rankings and fought Chris Eubank Jr. for the WBA Interim Middleweight title. Jeter formed his promotional company and promoted 20 events. Jeter is a licensed promoter in Maryland, Washington D.C., Virginia and is waiting to receive a promoters license in Pennsylvania.

Weimer is expected to make his debut under the Jeter Promotions banner on April 9 at the Springfield ABC in Springfield, Virginia.
